13. Method Overloading

1. Write two methods with the same name but different number of parameters of same type and call the methods from main method

2. Write two methods with the same name but different number of parameters of different data type and call the methods from main method

3. Write two methods with the same name and same number of parameters of same type and call from main method

4. Write two methods with the same name and same number of parameters of different type and call from main method

5. Write two methods with the same name, number of parameters and data type but different return Type.